Ky's Troops Surround Rebels' Station

Could Force Reconsideration Of Policies

Political Violence Feared Peril To U.S. War Effort

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of the best informed U. S. officials now fear prolonged political violence in South Viet Nam could undermine the whole basis of the American war effort there and force this country to reconsider its Vietnamese policies.

A deepening sense of worry and frustration has become evident among policymakers here in recent days.

The Johnson administration is still hopeful that the ruling military dictatorship in Saigon, headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, and rebellious Buddhist and military elements at Da Nang and Hue can patch over their differences quickly. Both sides have been warned that they are endangering American support.

But in administration quarters there is less talk than there was during earlier outbreaks of violence this year that the South Vietnamese are merely suffering political growing pains.

There is more anxious speculation that their differences may be too deep to be reconciled and, even if apparently composed, soon will erupt again.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's statement Wednesday specifying limitations on the amount of U.S. help that will be given to developing nations is being interpreted by some authorities here as underscoring in policy terms the diplomatic warnings to South Vietnamese leaders disclosed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk at a news conference Tuesday.

Rusk said the South Vietnamese were being told that "their own attitude, their own solidarity, their own efforts are crucial elements in the combined (American and Vietnamese) determination" to get on with the fight against Communist conquest.

McNamara, in talking about U. S. aid to underdeveloped countries in a speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Montreal, said American security is related to the security of developing nations and when they request help they may get it.

But he also noted: "Certainly we have no charter to rescue floundering regimes, who have brought violence on themselves by deliberately refusing to meet the legitimate expectations of their citizenry."

At another point, he declared: "Our role must be precisely this: to help provide security to those developing nations which genuinely need and request our help, and which demonstrably are willing and able to help themselves."

In the absence of official explanations as to what McNamara had in mind, other officials said that continuing civil strife in South Viet Nam could be seen here as evidence that the Vietnamese leaders are unable or unwilling to subordinate the struggles among themselves to the larger aim of defeating Communist forces.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's troops surrounded rebel headquarters in Da Nang today after more than four hours of heavy shooting around the Buddhist stronghold. The government appeared trying to choke off the dissidents rather than wipe them out in a direct attack.

In an attempt to exploit the turmoil, the Viet Cong's underground Liberation radio threw the rebels and urged all South Vietnamese troops to "rise up" against the government.

Buddhist leaders in Saigon and the northern provinces sent pleas for intervention to end the civil strife to world leaders, but significantly the monks avoided any association with the Viet Cong overtures.

The Buddhists also canceled all rallies today to avoid the impression that they might be in honor of North Vietnamese

New Strife In Da Nang

President Ho Chi Minh's 76th birthday today.

In the war against the Communists, only one major ground action was reported and monsoon rains held U.S. Air Force and Navy planes to 23 missions against North Viet Nam.

The U.S. command announced the loss, apparently to ground fire, of an Air Force C123 cargo plane on a flare-drop mission 36 miles northwest of Qui Nhon. Bodies of two crewmen were found in the wreckage, and the other three were listed as missing.

Allied dead and missing last week, announced today, remained at the level of the week before, but the enemy killed more than doubled. Spokesmen announced 86 Americans killed compared to 82 the week before, 91 South Vietnamese killed or missing in action as against 82 last week, 988 Viet Cong killed and 192 captured as compared to 456 killed and 121 captured last week.

Both loyalist and antigovernment forces took casualties as the eruption of fighting in Da Nang, South Viet Nam's second largest city, created the danger of a war within a war.

The shooting came in two-hour outbursts during the morning and in the afternoon as Ky's forces closed in on three Buddhist pagodas where an estimated 1,000 troops and Buddhists had collected in a three-block-square pocket of resistance.

When the second round ended, a government loudspeaker truck toured the area calling on civilians to stay in their homes or leave under the protection of Ky's troops. The government troops obviously were trying to hold down civilian casualties.

A paratrooper officer said eight of his men had been wounded but none killed.

A Buddhist spokesman in Saigon said 10 Buddhists had been killed, 54 wounded and 34 arrested.

About 500 government troops exchanged fire with the rebels as two of Ky's tanks moved slowly down a street toward the pagodas.

Paratroopers clung to the rear of the tanks or advanced on foot behind them while the tanks spewed machine-gun fire on rebel positions. At least four ambulances loaded with wounded drove out of the rebel stronghold.

Associated Press correspondent Robert Poos from two blocks away saw no sign of any government casualties. The sound of 30 caliber and .50 caliber machine guns, rifles and grenade launchers echoed across Da Nang. Snipers on rooftops directed considerable fire at the government forces.

Trucks brought other marines and paratroops from the 2,500-man force Ky sent into Da Nang on Sunday. The government force seemed to be trying to isolate the rebel complex in the east-central part of the city.

A cluster of paratroopers confronted five yellow-robed monks and Buddhist Boy Scouts seated behind a barricade at one entrance of the pagoda complex. The soldiers appeared reluctant to take any forceful action against the show of passive resistance.

Peggy Ann Resting In Hospital

Girl's Bruises, Scratches Indicate Ordeal Of Kidnap

SHADE GAP, Pa. (AP) — Scratches, bruises, blistered feet and sheer fatigue gave evidence today of schoolgirl Peggy Ann Bradnick's week-long ordeal as the captive of a crazed kidnaper and killer.

Peggy Ann, 17, rested in the Fulton County Medical Center in nearby McConnellsville. She was safe after a week of hiding and running with her captor, who sometimes dragged her by a chain around her neck as he fled from a massive manhunt in the wooded Tuscarora hillsides.

Two men were dead when the drama ended. One was an FBI agent shot by the kidnaper Tuesday. The other, the kidnaper, William Diller Hollenbaugh, 44, was killed in a final gun battle Wednesday in which a deputy sheriff was wounded.

Hollenbaugh kidnaped Peggy Ann, a quiet, pretty high school girl, at gunpoint May 11 while she and her five brothers and sisters walked home from school.

Dr. Gerald T. Lorentz, medical director at the center, spoke with the girl after her rescue. He said Peggy Ann indicated she spent the first two or three days of captivity in a house or shelter before the pair took to the woods.

A spokesman for the state commented during the massive manhunt that the kidnaper apparently knew the area — one of rocky, wooded mountains and deep valleys — "like the back of his hand."

"I gather she slept outside during those nights," Lorentz said. "She and Hollenbaugh ate beans and corn out of cans."

Lorentz said the girl told him the kidnaper dragged her by a chain around the neck several times.

Dr. Robert Fry, a physician at the center, said he found no evidence the girl had been molested.

Peggy Ann may have recognized her captor as the lone figure frequently seen pedaling a battered red bicycle through the neighborhood. Local residents of the tiny nearby community of Burnt Run called him "Bicycle Bill."

No suspicion publicly was cast on Hollenbaugh during the first few days of the search for Peggy Ann.

But it was later revealed he was a suspect almost from the start and police watched his two-room cabin just off Route 522.

been seen since the kidnaping. As the investigation advanced, police guessed "Bicycle Bill" also was the mysterious sniper, known locally as the "Mountain Man," who had fired at five persons in the past two years and wounded two.

The hunt first caught up with him Tuesday when five officers, with dogs, searched an area near Hollenbaugh's cabin.

A sniper, apparently hidden behind a log, opened fire killing FBI agent Terry Ray Anderson, 42.

The sniper disappeared, but was seen by a policeman running through the woods. Peggy Ann was with him. It was the first time the girl had been seen since her disappearance.

Hundreds of reinforcements — state police, FBI agents, National Guardsmen, game wardens, volunteers — threw an armed ring, 20 miles across, around the area to prevent Hollenbaugh's escape.

The ring tightened slowly Tuesday to a circle eight miles around, encompassing a peak known as Neelytown Ridge.

At dawn, Wednesday Hollenbaugh tried to break out of the closing ring.

Jack L. Conmy, the governor's press secretary, reconstructing the closing moments of the search, said Hollenbaugh came upon Deputy Sheriff Francis Sharp sleeping in a cabin near the search perimeter.

Cites Growing Labor Unrest

Mediator Fears Biggest Strike Year Since 1960

WASHINGTON (AP) — Growing labor unrest threatens to make this the biggest strike year since 1960, a top federal spokesman says. The AFL-CIO isn't quarreling with his prediction.

"It is quite possible that we are now entering a period of greater strike incidence," said chief federal mediator William E. Simkin, blaming the "rising feeling of democracy or unrest in union ranks" and the growing complexity of bargaining issues.

But an AFL-CIO spokesman said the "unrest" cited by Simkin largely is due to rebellion against White House guidelines that seek to limit wage increases to 3.2 per cent a year.

"You can't tell a carpenter he can't get a bigger wage raise because it might upset the economics of the entire country," the labor spokesman said.

The spokesman said Simkin was in a better position than the big labor federation to predict an increase in strikes.

But both emphasized that while the total number of strikes may be up sharply, they would involve the same relatively small number of workers as in recent years because few big industrywide contracts are up for negotiation this year.

Simkin said that although 1966 has been forecast as another year of relative labor peace "our own privately expressed forecasts were not so optimistic."

although the total of 100,000 workers involved was not a high for this decade.

The Labor Department reported 3,860 strikes involving 1,480,000 workers caused the loss of 23.1 million hours of production in 1965, but said this was less than 2 per cent of the nation's total working time.

Navy Cited On Business With China

Pentagon Probing Senator's Claim Of Hong Kong Deals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it is investigating Sen. Ernest Gruening's charge that the Navy has unwittingly done business in Hong Kong with companies controlled by Communist China.

The Alaska Democrat called for tighter control procedures to make sure the armed forces do not violate the Trading With the Enemy Act.

"We are looking into this matter," Asst. Secretary of Defense Paul R. Ignatius told Gruening during a Senate hearing on supply policies Wednesday.

Gruening's assertion grew out of an investigation his staff conducted in Hong Kong.

Joseph Lippman, staff director of the Senate subcommittee on Foreign Aid Expenditures, went there in March to make sure that discarded military equipment was not finding its way into Red Chinese hands.

Gruening said Lippman "learned that the U.S. Navy, which operates a procurement office in Hong Kong, had been making substantial purchases of electronic or other equipment from two firms which were owned or controlled or otherwise affiliated with Communist China."

The senator made that statement April 21 in a letter to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. At that time Gruening wrote that the Navy was unaware of Red Chinese involvement because the two firms were subcontractors. The Hong Kong firm which held the Navy contract had been cleared by the U.S. consulate, the senator added.

Gruening also told McNamara he fears "the situation disclosed may be more widespread."

THE TRANSACTION whereby the Ohio Brass Co. of Mansfield will take over the former Edwin M. Knowles China Co. building in Newell was consummated here this morning. Signing the papers formally leasing the facilities is E. S. Thompson, vice president in charge of manufacturing for Ohio Brass. Also seated are B. J. Little, company treasurer, and Robert E. Boyce, president of the First National Bank. Standing is Mike Turk. Boyce and Turk are owners of the building.

2 Years For All Young Americans

Voluntary Service Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is thinking of a voluntary effort — not compulsion — in his proposal that every young American devote two years to service either in uniform, the Peace Corps or some other help-making program.

Associates of the defense chief said this today after McNamara returned from Montreal, where he offered his proposal in a wide-ranging speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Sources familiar with McNamara's thinking said the secretary envisions both young men and young women taking part.

Officials cautioned against jumping to any conclusions that the Pentagon would send implementing legislation to Congress. They did not rule out the possibility, however.

McNamara's associates also sought to draw attention to other facets of the speech. These included the secretary's call for "building bridges" toward Red China and his emphasis on international peacekeeping as a hoped-for pattern of the future.

It was understood that McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have reviewed together the foreign policy aspects of the speech before the Pentagon chief went to Montreal to deliver it.

His service for all youth proposal came after he spoke of the need for a worldwide community of effort.

The present young generation in the United States is "committed and dedicated" — it has shown itself in the Peace Corps overseas and the antipoverty assault at home, McNamara told the editors.

Then he said the present draft system, drawing on only a minority of eligible young men, is an inequity.

"It seems to me that we could move toward remedying that inequity by asking every young person in the United States to give two years of service to his country — whether in one of the military services, in the Peace Corps, or in some other volunteer developmental work at home or abroad," he added.

McNamara developed his bridge-building theme after discussing "a vast ideological chasm" separating the United States from Russia and Red China.

"There is nothing to be gained from our seeking an ideological approachment," McNamara said. "But breaching the isolation of great nations like Red China, even when that isolation is largely of its own making, reduces the danger of potentially catastrophic misunderstandings, and increases the incentive on both sides to resolve disputes by reason rather than by force."

Abel Urges Action By USW, UAW

Cites Industry's Closing Of Plants, Forcing Jobs Loss

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The president of the United Steelworkers of America says his union should join forces with the United Auto Workers to halt "unilateral action" by industry in closing obsolete plants and throwing veteran workers out of their jobs.

I. W. Abel told the UAW's 20th constitutional convention Wednesday that the two giant unions should "join forces and work together... to see what we can do jointly, rather than working separately on problems we can solve together."

"The mere decision of a company to go out of business is insufficient," Abel said at a news conference afterward. Both labor contracts and federal legislation should provide for phasing out of plants and equipment, he said.

A union official said Wednesday it seemed likely that negotiations might be reopened for skilled tradesmen in the auto industry to obtain higher wages before new contract talks in 1967. Union President Walter Reuther reportedly discussed such action in a private meeting with UAW representatives and skilled tradesmen.

A UAW constitutional change to give skilled tradesmen the right to strike without approval of production workers is expected to be considered by the convention.

Ash Protests Dick Wright's Appointment

NEW CUMBERLAND — Gail C. Ash, chairman of the Hancock County Republican Executive Committee, has written a letter to the Hancock County Court of Commissioners protesting the appointment of Dick Wright as Justice of the Peace for Grant District.

Circulated Petitions Ask Ouster Of Wright

According to reports, petitions are being circulated in Grant District of Hancock County by a group of residents seeking the ouster of Dick Wright from the Justice of the Peace post to which he recently was appointed.

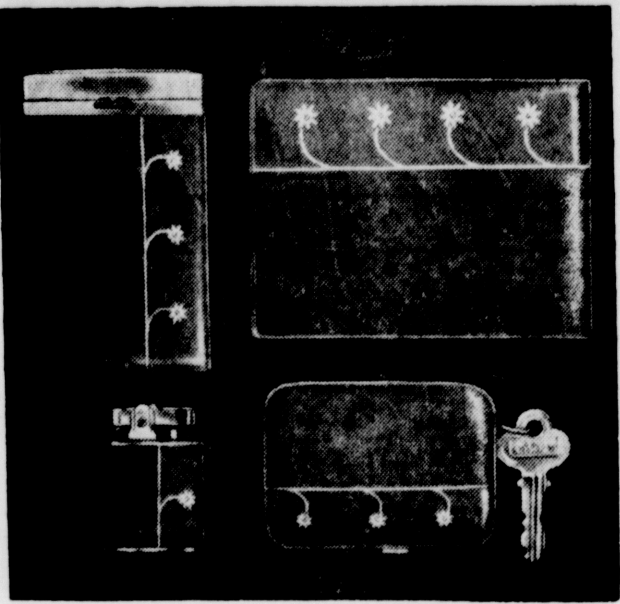

Wright, of Route 30, was named to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Harry Lytton of Newell.

Ash said he is referring the matter to the county prosecuting attorney and asked the commissioners to reconsider the appointment.

Final details on the financing of the planned new County Airport at Glenmoor are to be worked out, Laneve said.

War Ends Chance Of Halting Drain Of U.S. Dollars Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Viet Nam war has virtually ended any chance of halting the drain of American dollars overseas this year.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler indicated this much Wednesday. Although ending the deficit in the U.S. balance of payments in 1966 is still the goal, he said, the administration may have to settle for something less.

"It may well be that we will have to settle for an interim objective of equilibrium exclusive of the costs of Viet Nam," Fowler added.

He made the comments in reporting a disappointing $582-million deficit in the payments position for the first three months of this year.

But he cautioned against projecting this into an annual rate. Quarterly figures although adjusted for seasonal variations are "notoriously unreliable guides to future performance," he said.

Fowler said he could give the dollar and cent estimate of the effects of the war on the net dollar outflow but added that since the buildup began last August "we have been little more than holding our own."

Not only has the war meant a net outflow for direct military aid, the secretary said, it also has adversely affected the historically favorable U.S. trade balance.

Although exports exceeded imports by a $4.4-billion annual rate during the first quarter, he said officials had hoped for an over-all $6-billion surplus this year. The trade surplus last year sunk to $4.8 billion from $6.7 billion in 1964.

Fowler said it's impossible to spell out how much more favorable the trade balance would be without the pressures on industrial capacity and demand created partly by the Viet Nam war. But he made clear the adverse effect may well have been greater than the direct costs of the war.

Ban The Bomb Bombast

In a propaganda reverberation close behind the fallout clouds which followed the shock wave of its third nuclear explosion, Communist China has called for a world summit conference to outlaw nuclear weapons.

Thus it pretends to that stage of nuclear evolution which permits a nation to talk of shelving powers of destruction it has strained every resource to achieve. Even as a freshman in the growing fraternity of nuclear forces, Red China seems determined to become the newest muscle.

Such is the path of proliferation. France next may be expected to assume a moralistic posture toward the use of nuclear weapons. But only when it speaks from a position of nuclear power.

There is this crucial difference, however, as Red China and France continue to ignore the test ban treaty until they can afford to observe it. In challenging the nuclear monopoly of the United States and the Soviet Union, France is intent on becoming another world power while Red China seems determined to become the world power.

Red China's proposal of a nuclear weapons ban won't move world leaders toward any summits, but it should give them pause over its mountainous threat.

Without any of the subtlety usually attributed to Orientals, the Communist Chinese coupled their call for a weapons ban with a cry for renewed attacks against the "imperialist" forces of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.

In purporting to give the world a choice between using nuclear weapons and not using them, Red China is rattling a terrible saber in a velvet scabbard. Taking it at its word would be folly; not taking its ban proposal under consideration could be construed by the Reds as license.

And Red China knows it will have no takers. Not so long as nuclear weapons might ultimately become the only equalizer against a force of 700 million bent to militant ambitions of its Communist leaders.

TV Or Not TV?

America is faced with a dilemma of monstrous proportions — what to do with four or five evening hours, seven nights a week for the next three or four months.

Which is another way of saying the season of repeats on television is upon us, folks.

Don't laugh! This is no joking matter. It's downright serious for those TV addicts to whom nighttime viewing has become a way of life.

How do you fill those commercialless hours? Read? Naw, all they write is trash these days. Talk? Ugh! Besides, most of us have forgotten how to carry on an intelligent conversation. Take long rides? Too dangerous. Do odd jobs around the house? What, and maim myself for life? Drink? That's out. Worse than the TV habit and too expensive.

What then?

Well, you could always...

Heck, what's so bad about those repeats? There were some darn good shows that are worth watching again. Besides, September will roll around again before you know it and you can't let those eyeballs get out of shape.

Great Wasteland Of Culture

The 1960s seem certain to become a decade in which the arts in this country achieve the popularity and status that the prophets long have talked about.

At no time before in American history has there been such a determined drive to make works of art available to people everywhere, regardless of income level, remoteness from metropolitan centers, their ages and previous exposure.

Never before have such huge amounts of government money been spent to bring school children in direct contact with music, drama, dance and the visual arts.

The so-called artistic tide is rising in the Northeast, the South, the Midwest, the West and Southwest and there is no letup in sight.

Forces bringing about this revolution are many — civic pride, economics, affluence, new leisure, the drive "to keep up with the Joneses."

But our tastes in art are much like our tastes in fashions—just as most of us wear what the fashion designers dictate, so our tastes in painting, sculptures, music drama and the dance are dictated from above.

In our eagerness to be with the avant-garde we have gotten to the point where surrealism, abstractionism, primitivism, or pop, broken bumpers, rocks and any manner of junk is received with enthusiasm and labeled "profound imponderables."

"Profound imponderables" or not it's still op, pop, rock'n'roll as far as the weary eye can see—a wasteland where things are turned upside down.

War's Indispensable Arms

Old Navy men should take heart in a story that appeared recently which stated that the Navy may revive the battleship. It points out that there is a good possibility that the near-extinct battleship may be of some use in the Viet Nam conflict.

Two advantages have been listed for the battleships. They have more "sock power" with their bigger guns and they have "greater psychological effect."

This nation's war strategists are finding out little by little that the sophisticated weapons that this country has been working on since the end of World War II have but limited uses in Viet Nam.

The Viet Cong has shown us that the old anti-aircraft gun, in capable hands, remains one of the best air defenses. Our pilots have a greater respect for these then they do the surface-to-air missiles.

Several years ago the Navy was fighting a battle to maintain and enlarge its carrier force. Many of the "experts" claimed the carrier was a ship of the past.

Today we are relying to a great extent on the strikes from our carrier force. And the fight to get a nuclear carrier certainly was worth the effort. It has been proved that the nuclear carrier can launch more strikes and quicker than the conventional carrier.

The production of heavy bombers was slashed to the bone because it was felt that the days of the big bombers were ended. Today they are carrying a heavy part of the air war and production had to be put on an around-the-clock basis to supply the Air Force with replacements.

If we learn nothing else from the fighting in Viet Nam, one thing should stand out above all else—in any kind of scrap the three most important elements are still men, ships and planes.

Innovation In Education

It may not be too long before a young mother, with a month-old baby and other pre-school children, just packs up the children and takes them to college with her. Her husband may come to the campus for the weekends, or he may spend some time studying with his wife in the summer months, while the children are cared for in nursery school.

This is the gist of an original and inventive program approved in principle by the trustees of Bennington College. So-called continuing education for women is nothing new. More than 60 colleges and universities in 30 states offer college or special courses to mature women who may have dropped out of college or who are seeking graduate degrees, according to the U.S. Office of Education.

Virtually all of these programs are for women who have been out of an academic atmosphere for 10 or 20 or more years, whose children are in school or even college, and who live at home while continuing their studies by day or night.

THE BENNINGTON PLAN is different. Conceived by the college's new president, Dr. Edward J. Bloustein, this program would be residential, and especially designed for younger women, out of college for perhaps five years.

They, and their children, would be in residence at the Bennington, Vt., campus for two periods of six or seven weeks each, one in the summer—when the campus is not used—and one during the winter non-resident term, when the 360 Bennington girls are away at jobs related to their academic fields. The college would provide a nursery and nursery school. And husbands could come for summer weekends and winter school trips.

Dr. Bloustein, 41, who was inaugurated last October, feels that Bennington, founded as an experimental college in 1932, is the ideal place for this innovation in women's education.

Bennington, he said, "was founded in a spirit of revolt and dissatisfaction and, in good measure, it earned its national reputation because it dared to provide women with an educational experience they could not get elsewhere. We aspire to meet unmet needs in unthought of ways, and this, as much as anything else, defines our educational philosophy."

THE COLLEGE still gives no grades, has no required courses, and gives degrees by faculty approval of programs planned and completed by the students.

Dr. Bloustein was quick to state that the major objection to the new scheme was that "no husband would allow his wife to do it... the plain fact is that our contemporary pattern for early marriage and child-bearing to the exclusion of preparation for a professional career is already productive of considerable unhappiness, frustration and waste of human energy." If the early-marriage pattern continues, as it gives every appearance of doing, "some adjustments must be made and some burden must be imposed" for long-range marital happiness.

GETTING THE GIRLS back to college early, either for graduate or undergraduate study, is important for two reasons, Dr. Bloustein believes.

First, women who wait until their children are "grown" to return to college work may be loath to submit to the discipline of academic life after years as a homemaker.

Second, such women may fear that the skills they had as students and the knowledge they stored up have been lost.

The Bennington trustees agreed to give Dr. Bloustein six months to work out the cost and details of the new program, with the help of foundation money he is seeking. Bennington now gives no graduate degrees, for example, but would hope to work out a two-year program leading to the MA for the young wives.

Presently, he is planning to begin the new program for both graduates and undergraduates in the fields of social work, teaching, and computer mathematics.

EVEN BEFORE the new scheme gets started, Bennington will try a two-week preview this August. Miniature courses in visual arts, poetry and psychology will be given from Aug. 7 to 21 for wives and their husbands, with their children cared for by the college.

Handicapped!

Medical Pill Put In Politics

By Victor Riesel

Medicare is a bitter pill for many physicians to swallow. So the doctors, to work themselves out of their dilemma, have developed an ampoule with an antidote called AMPAC — American Medical Political Action Committee.

This is no antiseptic, quarantined operation. The medical men are heavily in politics. Their organization is coast to coast with an outpost in Hawaii.

It pivots on their national headquarters in Chicago, but as I swung west and east the other week I encountered politically professional units in state after state.

Judging from their literature, their fund-raising, their multi-colored, map-filled electioneering manuals, their workshops and strategy, AMPAC will be "swinging" in 135 congressional districts this fall.

This is no pimple — merely angered and anguished on the body politic. It's not based on strict professional caste.

The physicians are broadening their base. Now, in AMPAC, there are dentists, veterinarians, nurses, hospital aides, hospital administrators, anesthetists, pharmacists — the whole range.

Victor Riesel

WHERE THEIR POTENTIAL was some 250,000 doctors, they now are reaching for allied fields with far more than a million persons. Not all are activists. They have their hawks, their doves and as their national board chairman, Dr. Frank C. Coleman, says, they also have "ostriches."

Recently he told a regional American Medical Association House of Delegates meeting that "medicine has become involved in politics, like it or not."

The "wishful thinkers" are the ostriches, Coleman said in a speech which was cheered by a rising ovation from the House of Delegates.

The ostrich, said he, with head buried in sand, "presents an exceptionally alluring target" and is vulnerable during moments "of political danger."

There is no doubt that most medical men feel this danger — whether it's real or not. They are in this political fight now for keeps — though their precinct organizations, their network of headquarters, their training sessions go unnoticed.

THIS NETWORK is based on eight regional headquarters, running from a Boston suburb, through Pennsylvania (near Harrisburg), through Ohio (Columbus) and west to Omaha, Dallas and Mill Valley, Calif., — up into Washington and down south to Atlanta.

Within the regions are statewide AMPACs. In most of their key districts, the doctors have set up a "Candidate Support Committee" (CSC). The committees are primarily interested in putting into the House of Representatives men with whom they have empathy on such matters as the containment of "socialized medicine," medicare and general political opinion.

Gubernatorial races are not of much concern to the CSCs. Nor are the senatorial contests. These cost too much and AMPAC funds could get lost in the shuffle and so would their influence.

True to their profession, the doctors take a clinical as well as professional interest in the work.

FOR SEVERAL YEARS now they have had workshop sessions and seminars on how to run campaigns, publicity and general organizational techniques. One such two-day session is about due in Washington, where AMPAC has a liaison office — liaison, that is, with the Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Farm Bureau and the Business Industry Political Action Committee (BIPAC).

Make no mistake. These men are scientists. They learn where they can. And so they have invited the militant, outspoken labor pragmatist, Al Barkan, director of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE), to talk to them — to tell them how labor has whipped up so dynamic a national precinct machine. Mr. Barkan agreed.

No doubt he'll attempt to win them over. No doubt they'll try to draw from him the best mechanisms there are in this field.

Mr. Barkan knows this. He also knows that the physicians are on the march in politics — intense and earnest and soon, if not now, effectively. Or he would not waste his time.

He won't move them towards labor's viewpoint. But he'll try.

And he may learn something from them at that. There are more items in the doctor's bag these days than instruments and pills.

Odd Facts

The New England lobster inserts a grain of sand near the base of each feeler to help keep a bearing in its nearly weightless state in water, the National Geographic says. Gravity exerts a faint but constant downward pull on the sand grains, giving the lobster what amounts to a built-in plumb line.

Fewer than 2 per cent of the atoms present in any human body were there the previous year.

The westernmost nation of continental Europe, Portugal found her destiny in the sea. Five centuries ago, caravels bearing Portugal's Cross of Christ coursed the oceans, exploring and opening two-thirds of the then unknown world. Now, from Brazil to Portuguese Timor, 100 million people speak the tongue of Europe's oldest intact nation.

More than 200 species of ocean fish are known or believed to be venomous. Among them are stingrays, scorpion fish and certain sharks.

New York is still the nation's melting pot. Almost half the city's residents were born abroad or are first-generation immigrants.

Individuals Hit

By David Lawrence

U.S. Strike Picture Reviewed

An epidemic of strikes has begun to affect the American individual in a way that has been seldom felt.

In the first quarter of this year, more workers were involved in strikes than in an similar period since 1953. While there have been larger strikes before, in which more workers have been idled for longer periods, the actual number of disputes that recently have resulted in strikes is rising. There probably would have been more strikes, but the contracts of most of the big companies with the unions of large membership do not come up for renewal this year. The prospect now, therefore, is that industrial strife may be substantially increased next year, when large as well as small unions will be involved.

Most of the current strikes seem to damage the public directly. Thus, eleven Western states have been subjected to a bus strike, which interferes with travel arrangements and is particularly hard on servicemen.

A general strike was called against the New England Telephone Co. over the weekend, and approximately 11,000 workers in 25 locals are reported to have participated. Taxicab drivers in New York City have been on strike, disrupting transportation in the nation's largest city. The newspaper strike in New York, affecting three newspapers, has been going on now for more than three weeks.

David Lawrence

THE ONLY EXPLANATION for the wave of strikes last year and this year is the economic boom, which has persuaded many union leaders that, with all the talk about big profits, it was opportune for the labor unions to get their share while the going is good. Also, in a period of full employment, temporary jobs in alternate fields are easier for some of the strikers to get.

The impression prevails, moreover, that employers will capitulate rapidly to almost any demand. There are few companies which are doing so well financially that they can afford to risk the losses incurred during a long strike.

Basically the main trouble is that the art of bluffing has reached new proportions. The labor unions assume, when an offer is made by an employer, that it is just a bargaining maneuver and that, if rejected, a better offer or a series of improved offers will then be forthcoming until the very hour when the strike is imminent. Some labor union leaders feel that after a few days or a week of striking, they will win even better terms.

Meanwhile, the public suffers extensive injury and, when the strikes are over, nobody is recompensed. Oddly enough, the Congress of the United States, which is supposed to be interested in the "general welfare," has shown little disposition to inquire into the causes of strikes or the lack of satisfactory methods of settling the labor-management disputes.

THE ADMINISTRATION itself has maintained a neutral attitude and refuses to place the blame on labor for any of the work stoppages. The government's mediation machinery is utilized frequently, and often has been useful in bringing the two sides together to a final settlement after a strike has occurred. Labor union leaders have apparently decided on a strategy of actually threatening an employer as a means of assuring prompt acceptance of future demands.

Meanwhile, most businesses are not getting as good a return on their money invested as they did several years ago. While the total amount of profits may be larger than before, due to the increased volume, the rate of return in many industries has not gone up in comparison with a decade ago.

The administration has been talking a good deal about "guidposts" for both wages and prices but this has really had little effect on the labor side.

CONGRESS REGARDS the whole problem as a ticklish subject. Hence, America is not making the progress it might well have made if the legislators of today were as alert to the dangers of labor-management disputes as they were 20 years ago. This may be due to the rising political influence of labor, which now contributes substantial sums to help the Democratic party and raises a good deal of money also for those Republicans who join with the Democrats to make a majority in Congress.

That's why there is a reluctance nowadays to pass legislation to regulate labor management relations and to protect the public interest.

Britain And Malaysia Ready For Peace With Indonesia

LONDON (AP) — After a phase of quiet diplomacy, Britain and Malaysia are ready to take the calculated risk of making peace with a sobered Indonesia.

This is the meaning of the Malaysian government assignment Wednesday that sent Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak to meet with Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik.

More is at stake than an end to the three-year undeclared war between Indonesia and Malaysia. The stability of South Asia is involved, and with it American-British plans to block Red Chinese expansionism in the area.

An end to the war is all important for Britain at this critical stage in the Labor government's economic recovery program. Britain has 50,000 air, land and sea forces in Malaysia to defend its Commonwealth partner.

British representatives in Jakarta have done much spadework in informal exchanges with the new Indonesian regime of Lt. Gen. Suharto.

The outline of a settlement has begun to shape up, according to diplomats of the three countries concerned.

The starting point for any political reconciliation, by common consent, seems likely to be a tacit truce. This would mean an end to Indonesian raids on Malaysian territory and shipping and a cease-fire along the jungle frontier dividing Malaysian and Indonesian Borneo.

If all goes well, this would be followed by a quiet withdrawal of forces from the Borneo frontier. Binding political agreements could follow.

The Indonesians have given the British the impression that:

1. The Suharto regime has no designs on present territory of the Malaysian federation.

2. It is concerned much more with reorganizing Indonesia's near-bankrupt economy. Aid for reconstruction is likely to be sought from the United States, Britain, Australia, Japan and the Netherlands.

3. Indonesia intends joining no military alliances or blocs but will follow true nonalignment. President Sukarno was committed nominally to nonalignment but Westerners considered him to be in Peking's pocket.

Skull Identified By OSU Aides As One Of Mastodon

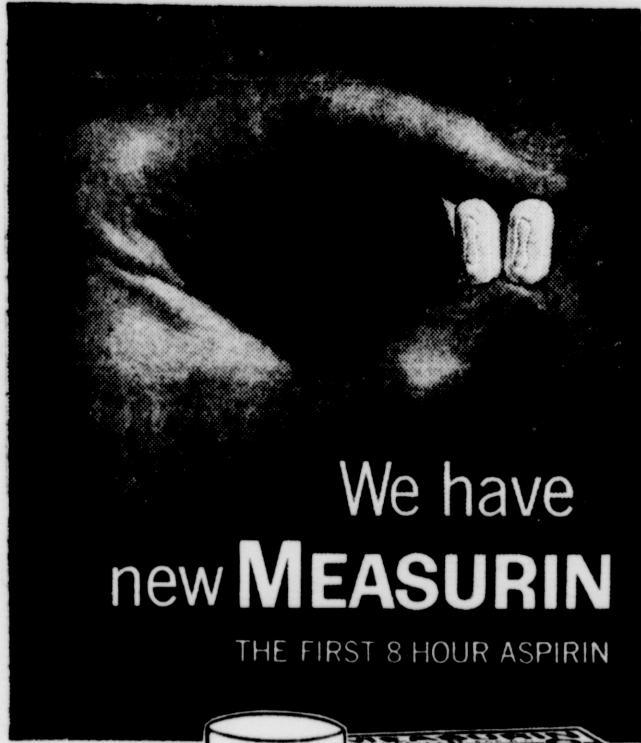

The huge skull found in the Lisbon area almost two weeks ago has been identified by Ohio State University authorities as that of a mastodon estimated to be 11,000 years old.

Raymond S. Baby, curator of archaeology at Ohio State, and A. E. Galbraith Jr., assistant curator of history, identified the skull Tuesday and then took it to Columbus to conduct tests to determine its exact age.

The blackened skull was unearthed during the beginning of a strip mine operation on the Delmar Sanor farm between Chambersburg and New Alexander.

The skull first was identified by Harold Kepner, president of the Buckeye Coal Mining Co. of Lisbon. He and his stepson, Wendell Cole of E. Pine St., Lisbon, then hauled it to the Cole home and notified OSU officials.

Kepner said the skull was dug from the muck of peat moss.

"Members of the Hancock County Court:

"I respectfully wish to protest, on behalf of the voters of Grant District, your sudden and shocking appointment of Dick Wright as Justice of the Peace in Grant District.

"The voters of Grant District had selected two Republicans to be their Justices of the Peace for the next four years. I feel it is most regrettable that in filling the vacancy caused by the untimely death of Harry Lytton you could not respect the wishes to these voters, both Democrat and Republican.

"In this county and others, it has long been the tradition that out of respect for the deceased, as well as the people in the district who elected him, the office left vacant by death is at least offered to the widow of the deceased. Again I feel it is most regrettable and that you have departed from this time-honored tradition."

"It is even more surprising to me, that in selecting the successor for Mr. Lytton, you also ignored the two Democrats who ran for the office. They at least had worked openly for the office, spent their time and money to be elected and were the choice of many (if not a majority) of the voters in the district served.

"A judicial office was at stake. The two court members who hastily granted Mr. Wright's request certainly were not judicious in their action. They would have been better advised to have followed the recommendation of their Democrat colleague, Jack Evans.

"Finally, by copy of this letter, I am requesting the prosecuting attorney of Hancock County to rule on whether the meeting at which time this action was taken was a legally constituted one, as to formal matters, and, in view of the hospitalization of before and after the fact of one of the members, whether each had full capacity to act at the time of the meeting."

"I urge that under the circumstances the court reconsider its action and make a more appropriate appointment."

Always match your flowers to the container, and be sure to match the arrangement to the color of the decor of the room in which it is to be used. Same colors or a nice contrast are good but if you use colors that clash, it's far worse than not having a floral arrangement at all.

Decision Due By Board On College Plan

A spokesman for the Ohio Board of Regents said today he anticipates some decision will be made on the question of a Columbiana County Community College at the board's meeting Friday morning in Columbus.

However, he said he did not anticipate any action on a proposal by Kent State University to redesignate the East Liverpool and Salem branches as the Columbiana County Academic Center.

James M. Furman, executive officer for the Board of Regents, said the staff has reviewed the community college plan submitted by the Board of Trustees.

"I suspect something will be done, but it is entirely in the regents' hands," he declared.

Furman said it is doubtful any action will be taken on the Kent State proposal because "it seems to me the first order of business is to resolve the community college question."

The regents definitely will take action on a proposal to establish a community college in Mahoning County," Furman said.

A delegation seeking retention of the Kent centers as well as representatives of the community college board are expected to attend tomorrow's session, scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., standard time.

Heights Sewage Line Break Sought By City

City crews are continuing a search today for a break in a sewage line on Lisbon St. which serves the Pleasant Heights area.

The line was uncovered Wednesday at the apparent site of the fault. It is on the east edge of the spot and workers said they may have to tear up some of the blacktop surface, as the line apparently runs on an angle underneath the road.

The break is underneath a cinder berm that once was a streetcar right-of-way. The apparent break was discovered when householders on a hillside on the opposite side of Lisbon St. found seepage on their property. The street department loaned the sewage department a backhoe and operator to help in uncovering the line.

Conflict Flares Over Democrats' Reorganization

In an apparent conflict of leadership, the new city Democratic central committee elected at the primaries May 3 have been invited to attend two annual reorganization meetings.

Larry Finlay of Sophia St., invited the 34 precinct committeemen to attend a "reorganization" meeting Wednesday night at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. His announcement said he would preside as the "senior member" of the central committee.

But the City Democratic Central Committee issued an announcement today over the signature of Joseph A. Winters, secretary, that the central committeemen will reorganize at a meeting Tuesday, May 24, at 8 p.m. at the Travelers Hotel.

The announcement added: "The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers for the coming term. All East Liverpool precinct committeemen and women are urged to attend."

Finlay mailed postcard notices of his meeting earlier to all the committeemen named at the May primaries. He said that because the committee did not have a chairman, he would preside. Councilman Norman Bucher is the committee's chairman of record. Finlay said only six attended the scheduled meeting last night, so no business was transacted.

Texas Klan Leader Resigns After Threat

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—John Aspinwall, the No. 2 man in the Texas Ku Klux Klan, said Wednesday he resigned from the organization after his family was threatened.

Aspinwall, the state grand kalif (vice president) of the Klan, said telephone callers repeatedly threatened to kill or injure his children.

"One called and asked how I would like it if I found the charred body of one of my kids in a gutter one day," the 37-year-old Houston machinist said. "You can't fight something you can't see, so I got out of the Klan."

His wife said she received calls threatening her husband's life from persons who vowed: "If we can't get him, we'll get the kids."

'Grand Old Man Of Senate'

Ex-U.S. Sen. Green, 98, Dies From Heart Failure

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Theodore Francis Green, 98, who retired from the U.S. Senate in 1960, died today at his home. He was the oldest man ever to serve in the Senate.

Green's doctor said his heart failed.

Green was stricken in late 1962 with a series of cerebral strokes.

For four months he was hospitalized and then went into a nursing home. He left the convalescent home three months later, stepping spryly into a car for the drive to his own home.

Green suffered a broken hip in his home three weeks before his 96th birthday, Oct. 2, 1963. Extolled as "the Grand Old Man" of the Senate at the apex of his career, he won his eminence in part by an energy and endurance that amazed his colleagues.

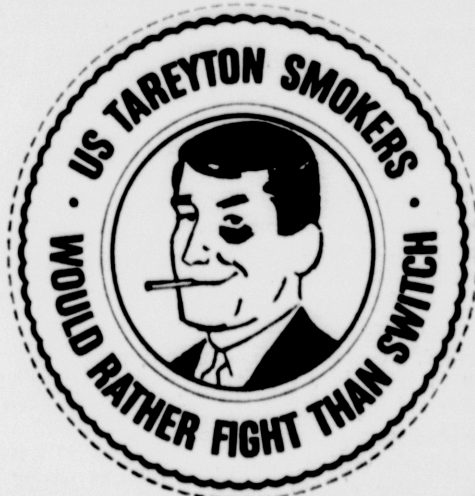

A frail and sickly boy, he had set himself a stern program of physical fitness. He became an apostle of the strenuous life and outlived his generation. He ended his Senate career because of failing eyesight and hearing.

He entered the Senate at 69, an age when most men have retired, was re-elected three times and served for 23 years.

His career included chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a post he gave up near the end of his career because of increasing difficulty in reading and hearing.

The Rhode Island Democrat, a millionaire lawyer and financier of colonial ancestry, was a powerful supporter of the Roosevelt New Deal and Truman Fair Deal.

Miss Eileen Ruth George And James Cusick Marry

A monk's cape of organza highlighted the floor-length gown of Miss Eileen Ruth George when she became the bride of James Francis Cusick on May 7 during a noon high mass at St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. George of 409 Azalea Ave. and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James P. Cusick of Toronto.

Fr. Donald T. DeCarlo officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar background of white snapdragons, pompons and carnations. Satin bows marked the family pews. James Musuraca and Richard Schuck were acolytes.

Mrs. James O'Reilly, church organist, presented a half-hour recital of nuptial music. Her husband sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother" as the bride placed a floral bouquet before the statue of the Blessed Virgin.

THE BRIDE was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. Her sheath gown of imported organza over taffeta was designed with a high neckline of sheer organza and long, pointed sleeves. A vertical, embroidered organza band accented the front of the gown from the neckline to the hemline. A matching embroidered band formed a yoke across the front and shoulders and outlined the flowing cathedral train.

Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by a double crown of seed pearls and crystals. She carried a white prayer book topped with an arrangement of orchids, stephanotis and satin streamers tied in lovers' knots.

In observing the familiar traditions, she carried a crocheted handkerchief made by Mrs. Catherine Bachmeyer. The sixpence in her shoe was the gift of Richard R. Heddleston.

The dress was fashioned with above-the-elbow sleeves, modified bell-shaped skirt and banded waistline set off with a back bow. Her matching Dior headpiece held a theater veil. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white carnations interwoven with azalea-pink velvet ribbon with matching streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Suzanne Bowen, Miss Bonnie McLaren and Miss Judy Canne, niece of the bride. They wore gowns styled identical to that of the maid of honor. Housewife Doing Well After Heart Valve Transplant

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A suburban Parma housewife in her 40s is reportedly "doing very well" following the successful March 21 transplant of a heart valve from a dead woman, her doctors report.

Josephine Robertson, medical writer for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, said the woman's life "was saved by the operation. A few months ago she could not have been saved."

Dr. Earle B. Kay, chief of heart surgery at St. Vincent Charity Hospital, performed the operation using a technique developed by Dr. Akio Suzuki.

The Plain Dealer said the woman's mitral valve was too badly damaged by rheumatic heart disease to be repaired and the area it occupied was too shrunken to accommodate an artificial mitral valve.

The valve, located between the upper and lower heart chambers, normally closes when the lower chamber contracts and the aortic valve opens, preventing blood from flowing back into the upper chamber.

Dr. Louis Jacobs, chief of the Division of Foreign Quarantine, said 10 confirmed cases of smallpox have been reported in Staffordshire in central England and there are another 13 suspected cases.

Music Will Fill The Air On Friday At Annual Wellsville School Event

A concert will be presented by the Wellsville School instrumental music department Friday at 8 p.m. in Beacom Memorial gymnasium, culminating the year's program.

Five complete bands will perform — the high school, junior high, elementary, stage and Dixieland bands. Various soloists also will be featured.

IN KEEPING with the motion picture Academy Awards presentation earlier this year, the theme of the program will be "Sound of Music."

Leading the festivities will be the 35-piece elementary band providing a patriotic atmosphere with the "National Anthem," followed by "Jacob's Ladder," "McNamara's Band," "My Bonnie," "Liza Jane" and "Alma Mater." These numbers have been especially arranged for the elementary band by John Pangle, director.

The 45-piece junior band will offer "Syncopated Clock," "Blue Tango" and "A Tribute to Glenn Miller." Included will be selections by cornetist Pam McCauley, "Petite Polka," and clarinetists Mark Thomas and Eugene Taylor, "Gay Minuet."

The 10-piece stage band will play "Undecided" and will feature Joyce Westlake's vocal stylings on "Good, Good Lovin'."

Next will be original compositions of Pangle dedicated to his wife and son — "Angel's Blues" and "Shane's Blues." The concert is dedicated to Pangle's family. Soloists will include Debbie Pittenger, alto saxophonist; Tom Meadows, trumpeter; and Vince Boggs, drummer.

THE FIVE-PIECE Dixieland will offer "Darktown Strutters' Ball," a unique arrangement of "Dixie," a hymn, "Just a Closer Walk with Thee," and an unusual treatment of a funeral. Special arrangements are by the band director.

Two high school soloists then will perform their contest numbers — Debbie Pittenger playing "Sonatina" and Tom Meadows "Concertino for Trumpet."

The high school band will introduce its share of the program with the "Leichenstein Polka," arranged by Pangle, and followed by "Dry Bones," "Sound of Music," "Bali Hai," featuring Joyce Westlake, "Irish Tune from County Derry" and "Colonel Bogey," one of the band's contest numbers.

Debbie Pittenger will return to the solo spot to perform "If I Loved You," followed by the final selection, "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Pair Injured In City Crash

A Newell motorist and his passenger, a 65-year-old East Liverpool man, escaped with minor injuries Wednesday afternoon at 3:43 in a collision of an auto and a truck on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." about 1,000 feet east of Ravine St., police reported.

The mishap involved a 1962 sedan driven by Gail Britton, 56, of Post Office Box 293, Newell, and a 1958 model wrecker truck operated by Carris M. Toothman, 50, of 130 Beechwood St. and owned by Al Gloeckner's Service Station at E. 3rd and Walnut Sts., police reported.

Both Britton and his passenger were released after treatment at City Hospital. Britton suffered contusions of the right elbow and Cartwright was treated for contusions of the left knee, the hospital reported.

There was extensive damage to the right front of Britton's auto, while the left front fender and "push board" of the wrecker were damaged, police said.

Britton told Patrolman Karl Samples he was traveling east about 25 miles an hour when the wrecker pulled from the shoulder of the road into his path. He said he was unable to avoid a collision. Toothman said he looked both ways before starting to pull onto the road, but did not see the auto until the moment of the collision.

Meanwhile, Wilbur Siebert of 165 Pennsylvania Ave. told police the right rear fender of his 1959 convertible was damaged about 8:16 p.m. Wednesday when struck by a hit-skip car while parked on Washington St. just south of Broadway.

Siebert told police he parked the car moments earlier and walked into a nearby tavern. A witness entered and told him his car had been struck by a backing auto which then left the scene, he reported. The witness furnished Siebert with a license number and description of the offending car, which he turned over to police.

New Moderator Chosen By U.P. Church Assembly

BOSTON (AP) — Advocates of reform appeared to hold sway today among United Presbyterians on the basis of their choice of a new moderator, their top-ranking officer.

He is the Rev. Dr. Ganse Little, 61, Pasadena, Calif., an avowed supporter of efforts to reunify Christianity, to clarify doctrinal positions and to re-examine the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.'s organizational system.

These are keen issues in the 3.3-million-member denomination, whose governing General Assembly began its annual eight-day session here Wednesday.

Its initial order of business was the election of a new moderator, and Dr. Little won on a second ballot in a race among five candidates.

He told 1,500 clergy and laymen "The first priority is to get things done and to see that we go forward."

He named the Rev. Dr. Howard M. Stone, Indianapolis, as vice moderator.

Total U.S. Catholics Hit Record In 1965

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of Roman Catholics in the United States reached an all-time high last year, but conversions to Catholicism dropped to a 12-year low.

Changes in the Church during 1965 were reported Wednesday in the official Catholic Directory.

The number of Catholics went up by 605,556 in 1965 to a high of 46,246,175, an increase of 37.7 per cent over the 1956 total of 33,574,017.

Conversions dropped by 3,660 to 123,149, the lowest number since 1953 when 116,696 converts were recorded.

Hunt Pressed For 126 Still Lost At Sea

MANILA (AP) — Ships and planes scanned the Visayan Sea today for 126 people still missing from the steamer Pioneer Cebu which was overturned Monday by Typhoon Irma.

Another interisland steamer picked up 136 survivors Wednesday, including a 70-year-old man and a 6-year-old boy. Many were in serious condition, suffering from shock and exposure after drifting without food or water for more than 40 hours in the shark-infested Visayan Sea.

The trading ship Diana found them clinging to wreckage from the sunken Pioneer Cebu.

Conrado Serna, 29, one of the survivors, said many people may have been taken by sharks. He said Tuesday night he heard cries of "Shark! Shark!" as he floated on a life raft.

Word went out to fishing villages along the coast of Cebu and nearby islands to watch for survivors who still might be drifting or might be washed ashore.

The Manila Rescue Coordinating Center said hope of finding more survivors was "slight" as the seas were still rough in the wake of the typhoon.

The exact number of passengers aboard the Pioneer Cebu may never be known. A head count by customs officers shortly before the ship left Manila for Cebu put the total at 262, including a crew of 55.

Reports from Cebu indicate the total may have been as high as 376. The ship carried 40 children and an unknown number of teen-age students on their way home for the summer holidays.

Mother Of 7, 4 Others Cited In Torture Slaying

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A jury convicted a mother of seven and four teen-agers early today in the torture slaying of Sylvia Marie Likens.

The panel of eight men and four women found Gertrude Wright Baniszewski, 37, guilty of first-degree murder and recommended life in prison.

The woman's daughter, Paula, 18, was convicted of second-degree murder. Mrs. Baniszewski's son, John, 13, was convicted of manslaughter.

Two neighbors of the Baniszewskis, Coy Hubbard and Richard D. Hobbs, both 15, were convicted of manslaughter.

Mrs. Baniszewski broke into tears as the jury returned its verdict after eight hours of deliberation. The trial began April 18.

All five defendants were charged with first-degree murder in the death last Oct. 26 of Miss Likens, 16. The prosecution had sought the death penalty. The girl was boarded in the Baniszewski home while her parents operated a food concession at carnivals.

The state charged Miss Likens was beaten, burned, branded and starved for two weeks before she died. Testimony indicated her body bore 150 wounds, including cigarette burns and a crude letter "S" branded on her chest.

60,000 Trees Planted In Two-County Area

Sixty thousand trees were planted this spring by 70 co-operators of the Northern Panhandle Soil Conservation District in Hancock and Brooke Counties.

Trees were ordered through the local district office from the state nursery which is operated by the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources.

These tree-planting projects are one part of the conservation plans being carried out by land owners in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service.

Trees being planted are white pine, Norway spruce, Scotch pine, black walnut, Chinese chestnut and tulip poplar. Most of the trees were planted to stabilize banks and reforest idle fields. Numerous plantings were made to encourage wildlife feed and cover. Plantings of evergreens are very valuable in this area to provide winter cover.

More Linked To Theft Ring

Two more high school students were linked to an alleged high school students' theft ring Wednesday afternoon and investigating officers are scheduled to interrogate another pair today, Police Capt. Robert Pyle said.

An ever-widening group of suspects was questioned by officers as the result of the arrest of an 18-year-old East End girl Tuesday afternoon at the J. C. Penney Co. store on a shop-lifting charge.

Her admissions led to the arrest of eight other high school students, six girls and two boys.

The East End girl was given a suspended 10-day County Jail term in Municipal Court Wednesday morning when she pleaded guilty to the shop-lifting charge. Her alleged accomplices, all juveniles, were cited to appear June 7 before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin at Lisbon.

Capt. Pyle said two more students were linked to the thefts as the investigation continued yesterday afternoon on the basis of information police obtained in their interrogation of the first nine suspects.

The talks with the two new suspects yesterday led to implication of two more who were scheduled to be interviewed at headquarters today.

Patrolman Charles A. Winters made the original arrest which broke the alleged "ring." There were conflicting reports on whether or not the students were involved in a "club" dedicated to petty thievery.

Wellsville police investigated three minor accidents Wednesday.

Cars operated by John L. Bolyard of Rayland and Frank Piskarsky of Wellsville R.D. 1, were involved in a crash at 3:20 p.m. at Aten and Clark Aves.

Police said Piskarsky turned the corner and stopped to discharge a passenger and his car was hit in the rear by Bolyard.

At 4 p.m., a car operated by Rufus Johnson of Irondale backed into a car operated by Homer T. Sims, 2106 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, at the intersection of 17th and Main Sts.

Cars operated by S. M. Stoin of 339 Broadway, Wellsville, and Patricia Sprouse of Wellsville R.D. 1 were involved in another collision at 5:40 p.m. on Wells Ave. The woman halted to allow another vehicle to come out of an alley and her car was struck in the rear, police said.

Lions Cleanup Drive May Clean Out Funds

CALAIS, Maine (AP) — The local Lions Club has launched a cleanup campaign that may well clean out its treasury.

President Leonard Scott said that as part of a beautification campaign, the club offered to pay one cent for each beer can collected along municipal highways by Friday.

But he said Wednesday some 9,500 cans already have been collected—and club members feared that the total may climb astronomically by the end of the week.

Bosch's Party Won't Boycott Dominican Presidential Race

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Ex-President Juan Bosch's party Wednesday night withdrew its threat to boycott the Dominican presidential race after the government confined the armed forces to quarters until the June 1 election is over.

The executive committee of Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary party — PRD — said in a statement that provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy's orders had resolved the crisis. Bosch and the PRD had charged the armed forces and national police were persecuting party workers.

Garcia-Godoy in a radio-television address said that to create the proper conditions for a safe, free election he also was creating a tripartisan commission to deal with future complaints of political persecution. The commission is to include representatives of the three presidential candidates: Bosch, ex-President Joaquin Balaguer and ex-President Rafael Bonnelly. Bosch had threatened to pull out of the elections by noon today if the government did not crack down on the armed forces and national police. Bosch charged they were carrying out clandestine campaigns to help his chief rival, Balaguer, the Reformist party candidate.

100 At Lisbon Church Event; Historical Society Will Meet

LISBON — The Lisbon Historical Society will hold its spring meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the old Stone House.

Ross C. Fox will discuss the "Life of Clement L. Vallandigham." The Vallandigham family resided at 431 W. Lincoln Way. In addition to gaining fame during the Civil War, Mr. Vallandigham became a controversial figure in the area. His father was the minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Lisbon.

The public is invited to attend.

100 At Mother-Daughter Event

One hundred mothers and daughters of the Holy Trinity United Presbyterian church attended the banquet in their honor Tuesday night at the church.

The invocation was by Mrs. Joseph Bosel. Mrs. James Horger served as mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. Clifford Shaw's six daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Bates, Mrs. Ruth Ann Pannier, Mrs. Marjorie Pannier, Mrs. Joann Harris, Mrs. Sandra French and Miss Karen Shaw, sang her favorite songs "Whispering Hope" and "Beautiful Ohio" as a surprise to their mother.

Cheri Laughlin sang "My Mother" as tribute to mothers, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Homer Laughlin, who responded with the tribute to daughters.

Mrs. R. D. Ferrell was awarded a gift as the oldest mother present; Mrs. Ralph Ehrhart, youngest mother; Mrs. French, mother with youngest baby; Mrs. Norman Benner, oldest grandmother, and Mrs. Pannier, youngest grandmother.

"The Bell Ringers" of the Calcutta United Presbyterian Church, comprised of 15 young people, presented a program.

"The Lord's Prayer," sung by Mrs. Ruth Ann Pannier, concluded the event.

LBj Finance Bill Receives House Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appeared assured today of congressional authority for a venture into the private capital market designed to hold the 1967 budget deficit to his predicted $1.8 billion rather than a possible $6 billion.

While the Senate and House still must negotiate some details, the House removed the last big doubt Wednesday by voting 206-190 for Johnson's bill to permit the administration to shift federal loans to private investors, using the resulting cash to finance some government operations. The Senate has passed the bill in slightly different form.

The close House vote climaxed a long controversy that found liberal Democrats joining Republicans in opposition to the bill and many fiscally conservative Southerners supporting it. The Republican opposition was solid.

The Senate was expected to move quickly for a conference to reconcile the differences on the measure. The administration is known to be planning to use the authority as soon as possible to provide funds for some agencies now short of cash.

The bill provides for the pooling of loans made by various government agencies and still held by the government. The Federal National Mortgage Association then would market participations in these pools, principally to large investors—such as pension funds and insurance companies.

The proceeds would go to the agencies whose loans were in the pool. They could then make new loans without receiving appropriations that would show up as budget spending.

Use warm water to dampen clothes, as it penetrates the fabric more evenly and quickly than cold water. They are also ready to iron much quicker.

Driver Hospitalized After Car Rams Pole

A Calcutta man was hospitalized with injuries suffered when his convertible struck a power pole along the Sprucevale Rd. at 1:50 a.m. today.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Gary James of Maple Dr., failed to negotiate a curve and his vehicle went off the right side of the road, striking the pole.

James was admitted to City Hospital with lacerations of the wrists. He was in "fairly good" condition today.

He was returning from a business trip to Youngstown when the accident occurred.

Prosecution Set To End Case In Stanton's Court-Martial

HERSHEY, Pa. — The prosecution in the court-martial of State Police Maj. Willard J. Stanton expected to wind up its case today.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Judson Ruch, the prosecutor, said the last witnesses would be two state representatives and some unidentified state policemen.

The legislators are Rep. Ronald G. Lench, D-Beaver, chairman of a House committee investigating the state police; and Rep. William B. Curwood, D-Luzerne, a committee member.

Ruch said Wednesday, that Rep. Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, another committee member, has refused to answer a subpoena to appear at the court-martial.

Fineman was a key figure in the committee's relentless questioning into alleged wiretapping by state police.

Stanton, who is under suspension, is charged with ordering a subordinate to use wiretaps, purchasing equipment without competitive bidding and insubordination in refusing to answer questions from a superior.

Stanton is accused of having ordered state police detective Angelo Caracci to use wiretaps, which is against state law. Caracci also has been suspended and faces a court-martial later.

Aud. Gen. Grace M. Sloan testified before the court-martial board Wednesday. After emerging from 30 minutes of testimony, Mrs. Sloan said she could not disclose any of it.

She is conducting an independent probe into the state police's so-called "confidential fund" from which money is paid tipsters. Mrs. Sloan is trying to determine if any improper use of the fund's money was made.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: You know those nice pole shelves we buy to put in the bathroom?

Well, I've got a problem. It seems that nearly anything we put on the shelves ruins the paint.

Perhaps you can figure out a way to prevent the paint from coming off and these budget-type cabinets rusting.

NEW BRIDE.

DEAR BRIDE: You're going to think this is expensive but it really isn't.

I have been testing this six months now. The only answer I have found is to buy some colorless, transparent adhesive-backed paper, and cover the shelves with it when the cabinet is new. This paper can be wiped off any time with a damp rag.

If they are already chipped or rusted, use opaque adhesive-backed paper to cover the shelves.

This is the only way I know outside of repainting. If any of you have any more ideas how to keep these wonderful shelves in good condition, please do let us know. We would love to hear from any of you who have any idea we can pass along to help other housewives.

After all, we housewives have to stick together. Who else is going to help us?

DEAR HELOISE: We live in an apartment, and I would not put any new nail holes in the walls.

This made it difficult in the kitchen, because I couldn't hang things in handy places.

We are fortunate because we do have quite a bit of metal surface, and I'm able to use magnetic cupholders to hang pot holders, bottle opener, dish brushes, etc., on.

MRS. GREGORY SMITH.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE: (Just had to write you in regard to that new way to put on new or tight shoes using folded dollar bills as a shoe horn — Heloise).

Seems as how I must buy shoes that fit right because after I pay for the shoes, I don't have several dollar bills left to fold lengthwise for a shoe horn!

JIM THORNTON.

DEAR HELOISE: Teen-agers in our family deserve the credit for this hint:

The girls had made the lovely, straight-line dresses of today. Instead of buying lace to cut the severity of the neckline and sleeves, they rescued the beautiful hand crocheted lace their great-grandmother had made for pillow cases.

The pillow cases were long-gone but the lace, still good in its lavender soap-scented tissue paper hiding place, is now displayed as it deserves, adding beauty to beauties.

MRS. ROBERT W. BURKEY.

DEAR HELOISE: Did you ever begin dressing hurriedly, and find the dress you intended to wear was wrinkled from the crush of clothes in the closet? Well, don't drag out that ironing board and set it up!

I just flip the bedspread and blanket up from a corner of the foot of the bed, and do my spot-pressing there on the sheet.

RITA HAMPTON.

Here's another hint along the same line:

Sometimes when I'm in a hurry, I pull out my dough board, fold a heavy towel and lay it on the board for a quick press job.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I have a large family, and urge them to brush their teeth often.

I got plastic glasses, and taped each name on the glasses with adhesive tape. I put them in a row, and each one is using his own glass now.

No more spreading germs and helps keep colds down.

City Continues Search For New Street 'Barn'

Mayor George E. Willshaw said today the administration is making progress in a search for a new street department equipment "barn" to replace the Lisbon St. building condemned nearly a week ago as unsafe by Fire Chief Alfred VanDyne.

The mayor said he may have an announcement by next week on a new location if negotiations continue to progress smoothly. Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper has been asked to set up a meeting between city officials and owners of the property the municipality has in view, the mayor said.

The present street department garage, a two - story brick structure once used as the West End fire station, was condemned Friday by the fire chief. Earlier, Council had authorized the administration to seek a site for a new garage or seek to negotiate for a suitable building.

Police said Alfred Schaeufele, 54, a hospital laboratory technician; his wife, Naomi and daughters Gretchen, 8, and Kathy, 6, were the victims.

The Schaeufele auto was smashed broadside by a Norfolk & Western train, according to police.

Officers said the crossing, on

The Schaeufeles are survived by a son, Michael, 17, who was not in the car with them, police said.

The auto was carried about 300 feet by the train which had been going about 45 miles an hour, westbound, as it approached the grade crossing.

All four victims were thrown out as the car rolled over.

Ohman and Associated Press photographer Dang Van Phuoc were trapped in the open along a street as pro-government forces advanced toward a dissident stronghold.

As firing became heavy, they attempted to reach cover on the other side of the street. Caught in the middle by a burst of fire, they threw themselves to the street just as the rifle round exploded above them. One fragment struck Ohman in the foot. Phuoc had been wounded seriously by a grenade earlier this year during an operation in the Mekong River Delta.

4 Britons Plan Rowboat Race Across Atlantic

BOSTON (AP)—Would you believe a rowboat race across the Atlantic Ocean?

Four Britons do. David Johnstone, 34, Farnham, Surrey, and John Hoare, 29, Leicester, leave Virginia Beach, Va., today or Friday in a 15-foot boat equipped with a small cabin and a kerosene stove.

Capt. John Ridgway, 27, and Sgt. Shay Blyth, 26, both attached to a parachute troop stationed at Aldershot, England, plan to shove their 22-foot dory into the waters off Cape Cod, Mass., next week for the long haul to Lands End in England. Their dory is equipped with life rafts, lifejackets and radios.

Both teams hope to make the 3,000-plus mile trip in less than 50 days and break a record they said was set by two seamen in 1895.

Each pair of rowers plans to take along some extra pairs of oars.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

It's The Nature Of The Beast

"It's the nature of TV to have more awards categories than desirable," says Bob Banner in reply to the critics' cat callssoreply to the critics' catcalls over this Sunday's upcoming 18th Annual Emmy Awards show on CBS with its 226 nominations in 38 different classifications.

Banner is the producer of the Emmy Hal Humphrey runoff this time, and his point is well taken, even if it is a bit defensive. TV comes at us an average of 18 hours a day, making it prodigious through sheer force of numbers, if nothing else.

Each time the National Academy of TV Arts & Sciences tries to pare the number of categories, a howl of protest rises from those who work in that section being discriminated against.

MOST OF TV by now has leveled off on a mediocre plateau, and it is a ticklish business to apply a quality measuring rod as a means of deciding what or who should be trimmed.

If Batman, which already has settled into such a repetitive rut that the Batmobile is becoming the star of the series, can be classed and nominated as an Outstanding Comedy Series, then how can the TV Academy post any off-limits signs?

A group of TV critics became so worked up over Emmy's loose ways that in a rare display of cameraderie 12 of them have formed what they call Critics' Consensus, and two days after the Emmy show they will announce their choices based on genuine "outstanding achievement." Presumably there will be fewer Critics' Consensus awards than critics in this instance.

In 1953 the TV Academy did turn over the nominating to the newspaper TV critics, but as I recall they had as much difficulty fitting a crown of dignity on Emmy as the members themselves have had. After you get past one or two Hallmark Hall of Fame dramas (usually adapted from a stage success) and an outstanding documentary here and there, the rest of TV is a grab bag of slick, but generally shallow entertainment.

ONE TV CRITIC is all upset at finding the Andy Williams Show, Danny Kaye and Red Skelton nominated this year in the Outstanding Variety Series category. "Even his most devoted fans must surely know the program (Danny Kaye) had a bad year," reported this critic, then he went on to add that although Red Skelton "is a funny fellow and a great silent clown, his series is far from outstanding each week."

Well, this reminds me of the old gag about the fellow who is asked how his wife is, and he replies "Compared to what?"

Naturally Red Skelton isn't outstanding every week, or maybe not even every month, but he has been doing a weekly show each season for the last 15 years. If this doesn't rate him a chance for an Emmy, then the academy should see what can be done about getting him a Purple Heart.

"These are da conditions which prevail," as Jimmy Durante frequently says, and it becomes a little silly for us TV critics and columnists to largely pan the medium throughout the year, then expect its academy to provide us at the end of that year with neatly packaged categories containing shows and personalities deserving of merit awards.

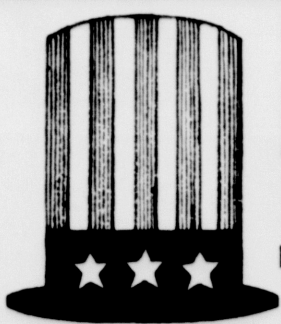

AS FOR THE EMMY SHOW itself this Sunday, producer Bob Banner insists it will be 40 minutes shorter than the one last September and that the activity will be concentrated on naming the winners and presenting the awards.

"We will do it as an event, not a TV show with singing, dancing and comedy," says Banner, "and before academy president Rod Serling makes his speech we will already have given out performers' awards in three categories."

That latter statement should be encouraging news for viewers of the recent Oscar show who sat through interminable technical awards before getting to the stars. The trouble with technical awards is that most of us don't know enough about them to yell, "How come that bum got it?" and that takes away all the fun.

Manipulators Home From Viet Pursued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department and the Treasury Department are teaming up to go after American civilians who have returned from Viet Nam with small fortunes made through money manipulation in Viet Nam, officials said today.

"These people will be pursued," one defense official told a reporter.

He said 28 Americans, most of them past and present employees of U.S. contractors in Viet Nam, have been under investigation since returning to this country. Their files have been forwarded to the Treasury for tax scrutiny, he said.

The Pentagon and the Treasury have begun working closely on means to choke off money profiteering and black marketeering in Viet Nam. A Treasury agent will go to Saigon to survey the situation and an official said the agency may eventually station people there.

Over-all, it was learned, 70 U.S. civilians have been the subject of probes. One American netted about $42,000 by money speculation, officials said, and several pocketed profits in the $16,000-$18,000 range.

Officials also said 41 U.S. servicemen in South Viet Nam have been court-martialed or given lesser punishment in the crackdown on black marketeering and currency manipulation. Offenders in money speculation were said to have been chiefly U.S. civilians. Servicemen were involved for the most part in selling post exchange goods on the black market.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Thomas D. Morris and Frank Bartimo, a senior Pentagon lawyer, flew back to Washington last weekend after an on-the-spot check on the situation. Officials familiar with their findings said firm actions by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, has cut down the problem.

Deaf And Blind Poet To Receive Honorary Award

WINNETKA, Ill. (AP) — Richard Kinney, 42, a deaf and blind man who writes poetry, will be awarded an honorary doctorate next Wednesday.

Kinney, associated director of the Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka, is believed to be only the second deaf and blind person so honored by an American University.

The first was Helen Keller, who received an honorary doctorate from Temple University in 1931.

Kinney will receive his honor from his alma mater, Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio. Blind and deaf since a childhood illness that never was definitely diagnosed, Kinney has been working to advance education of the handicapped as an official of the world council for the welfare of the blind. He has had four volumes of verse published.

Kinney is to leave June 2 on a world tour, sponsored by the Lions Club, which specializes in aiding the blind. He is married and the father of a son, Clark, 3.

Injunction's Issued To Prevent Picketing

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A temporary injunction, in force until further order, has been issued by the Kentucky Court of Appeals to prevent picketing by unauthorized strikers at the Arco Steel Co. plant in Ashland.

The high court Wednesday ordered attorneys for both sides to file briefs on or before June 1 on the issue of whether the state courts or the National Labor Relations Board has jurisdiction in the dispute. The mill has lost an estimated $4 million in production and other costs, the court was told, since the group called the Loyal Volunteers of United Steel Workers Local 1865 began the first of two strikes last month.

Captain, Crew Of 26 Abandon Greek Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—The captain and 26 crewmen abandoned the Greek freighter Aurora Wednesday night in the North Atlantic. They were picked up by the British freighter Scyllia and Overseas Courier.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the freighter, which was enroute from Hamburg, Germany to Montreal, without cargo, was in imminent danger of sinking with a damaged hull and 22 feet of water in two holds.

Are Astros Contenders Or Pretenders? Foes Are Asking

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds are beginning to rise to the surface but the big question in the National League is whether the Houston Astros are in over their heads.

Expected to be among the pennant contenders, the slow-starting Reds continued their climb from the tail-end section of the standings Wednesday night, moving to within one victory of the New York Mets 4-2. The Reds now have won 10 of their last 12 games.

At the same time, the Astros, expected to be down where the Reds were, reeled off their 14th and 15th victories in the last 19 games by sweeping a double-header from the Chicago Cubs 5-1 and 4-2. Houston has inched to within 2½ games of front-running San Francisco.

The big question is whether the Astros are serious contenders or early season pretenders. So far, however, their bid has to be considered. As a whole, the team is hitting a respectable .245 and the pitching staff has a combined earned run average of 2.78.

15 Out Of 19 Vault Houston To 2½

And, the Astros have been getting some solid individual performances. Second baseman Joe Morgan is hitting at a .342 clip, outfielder Jim Wynn is among the runs-batted-in leaders with 23 and shortstop Sonny Jackson is the runner-up in stolen bases with 12 to 14 for Maury Wills of Los Angeles.

The Giants, meanwhile, remained at the head of the standings with a .697 percentage to Houston's .625, by downing the third-place Dodgers 6-4. Philadelphia climbed into fourth by edging St. Louis 4-3 and Atlanta whipped Pittsburgh 4-2.

Wynn smacked a two-run double and Lee Maye and Rusty Staub hit homers in support of Dave Giusti's seven-hit pitching in the Astros' opening game victory. Catcher John Bateman homered for Houston in the nightcap but the key plays were two errors by the Cubs' Ernie Banks that led to three unearned runs.

Robin Roberts needed relief help from Claude Raymond in the second game but got the victory, No. 284 of his major league career.

Sammy Ellis checked the Mets on four hits while the Reds collected seven hits and nine walks off four New York pitchers. Cincinnati put it out of reach with a three-run fifth built on three walks, a hit batter, Deron Johnson's double and an infield hit by Tommy Helms.

Trailing 3-2, the Giants came up with four runs in the eighth inning with the help of errors by second baseman Jim Lefebvre and outfielder Ron Fairly. Hal Lanier singled in the tying run and when Lefebvre fumbled the relay from the outfield on the hit, Tito Fuentes came around all the way from first and scored the lead run.

Hank Aaron and Woody Woodward produced the Braves' runs, Aaron connecting for his 12th homer, a two-run shot, and Woodward stroking a pair of run-producing doubles. Ken Johnson got the victory, scattering nine hits. Vern Law, just off the disabled list, took the loss — his first in his last 11 decisions.

The 2,000th hit of Dick Groat's major league career helped the Phillies to the winning run against the Cardinals. Tony Taylor led off the seventh inning with a single, moved to third on Groat's single and scored when Jerry Buchek bobbled Bill White's doubleplay grounder. Bob Gibson was the loser and now is 3-5.

Owner Plans To Syndicate Kauai King For $2 Million

BALTIMORE (AP) — Michael Ford, owner of Kauai King, confirmed today that negotiations are under way to syndicate the Kentucky Derby winner for $2 million.

"But nothing will be done until after the Preakness Saturday," Ford said on returning from a conference with Maryland and Virginia breeders at Warrenton, Va. "If we do well in the Preakness then we will be open to continue negotiations."

Ford disclosed the status of the negotiations a few hours before the names of Kauai King and eight other 3-year-old horses were expected to be dropped into the entry box for the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico.

Ford said that since Kauai King won the Derby he had been approached by several groups and had turned down one in excess of $1.5 million from a Kentucky syndicate.

"It is no secret that I always have planned to eventually syndicate the colt," he said. "I am a businessman and in the sport to make money. And I am not in the position to handle a type of stallion that Kauai King figures to be."

The Maryland and Virginia syndicate is headed by Thomas Mellon Evans, who proposes to stand Kauai King at his Buckland Farm in Virginia after the

Twins Rock Chisox Again; Lock Saves Nats' Victory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Mincher didn't have much time and Harmon Killebrew didn't waste any.

But for fast work, how about Washington's Don Lock, who didn't have a moment to spare in making a game-saving catch for the Senators?

Mincher and Killebrew provided the thunder and lightning with long home runs Wednesday night as the Minnesota Twins rocked Chicago 7-1.

Lock, playing center field, raced to the 408-foot sign in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, leaped and speared pinch hitter Duke Sims' bid for a home run, preserving Washington's 4-3 victory over the Indians.

Mincher was on the Twins' bench until the fifth inning when he replaced Rich Rollins, who left the game because of an upset stomach. But he made the most of his abbreviated stint, pushing across four runs in two appearances.

In the fifth, Mincher came up with the bases loaded and drew a run-producing walk. Two innings later, he poled a 375-foot homer with Cesar Tovar and Killebrew on base.

Killebrew, off to his slowest home run pace in six seasons, hit his second of the season and 299th of his career in the first inning, giving Jim (Mudcat) Grant a quick lead.

Washington's Pete Richter took a four-hit shutout into the ninth, but then was tagged by Rocky Colavito's pinch three-run homer. That brought Casey

Cincinnati Would Give 'Big Stadium' Returns

CINCINNATI (AP)—Former Cleveland coach Paul Brown, who seeks a Cincinnati franchise in the National Football League, is the author of a plan which would guarantee visiting clubs here a "big stadium" return even though they play the 1967 season in much smaller quarters, the Cincinnati Enquirer reported today.

The Enquirer quotes NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle as describing the proposal, made at Wednesday's session of NFL owners in Washington, as "certainly unique and very interesting."

Cincinnati is one of seven cities which seek the franchise. The Enquirer says that the idea of a subsidy payment to visiting clubs during the 1967 season—while the city's newly planned 55,000-capacity stadium is under construction—was advanced by Brown in a letter to Cincinnati Mayor Walton H. Bachrach.

The Clubs would play their first season here in either Crosley Field, home of the Cincinnati Reds baseball team (seating capacity about 31,000) or the University of Cincinnati's Nippert Stadium, which seats approximately 33,000.

NFL executives said the subsidy might run $25,000 a game or 200,000 for the season.

Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio advanced the idea in presenting Cincinnati's case before NFL owners and said the city's stadium, not yet under contract, would be ready for start of the 1968 grid year.

NFL Begins Studying Bids Of 7 Cities For 16th Club

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 20 might go on between the two player representatives moved into the National Football League meetings today to talk turkey with the owners now that seven cities have completed their pitch for the 16th franchise in 1967.

There were no prior reports of problems between players and owners, and no word of what

The league still was beaming over the attention showered upon it Wednesday by governors, senators, congressmen and mayors in the scramble for the 16th franchise.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle planned to summarize the presentations made by Houston, New Orleans, Seattle, Cincinnati, Boston, Phoenix and Portland, Ore., so that the owners can begin to evaluate the candidates.

"We have no deadline for decision," said Rozelle. "We do want to have a 16th team on the field in 1967. As of now, we have not made up our minds. It may be necessary to hold further meetings or to have representatives visit some of the cities."

The choice of Houston or Boston would mean a direct war with an established American Football League club.

Clay Closes Training For Title Fight

LONDON (AP) — Cassius Clay eased off his training today, looking fit, fast and fierce for his world heavyweight title defense against Britain's Henry Cooper Saturday.

Clay put in a flashing final sparring session at his White City Stadium gym Wednesday, jabbing and hooking spar mate Jimmy Ellis from one side of the ring to the other.

The champion circled continuously to the left — away from the left hook that is Cooper's most damaging punch. He went three rounds of sparring, making 73 in all.

The fight is being carried live to the United States via the Early Bird satellite.

An estimated 44,000 people will watch the fight at London's Arsenal soccer stadium and the fight is also being piped on closed-circuit television to theaters throughout Britain.

Jets Miss Chance To Increase Lead After 8-2 Loss

By The Associated Press
The front-running Columbus Jets have blown a chance to put some distance between themselves and the rest of the International League pack.

An 8-2 defeat Wednesday night at the hands of the Richmond Braves cost the Jets an opportunity to open their lead over the second-place Jacksonville Suns, beaten 5-3 by the Toledo Mud Hens. Rain washed out the Buffalo at Rochester and Toronto at Syracuse encounters.

Toledo was the big gainer, the Mud Hens' 11th victory in their last 14 starts moving them to within two games of Jacksonville and to within 2½ of the Jets.

A two-run homer by Archie Moore and a three-run drive by Bobby Murcer provided all the runs Toledo needed.

Stan Bahnsen picked up his third victory against one defeat, allowing five hits.

Ty Cline had four hits and drove in three runs and Jim Beauchamp had three safeties and drove in two runs for Richmond against Columbus.

Beauchamp's fourth home run of the season in the fifth inning snapped a 2-2 tie, and Billy Southworth hit his third in the sixth. Beauchamp singled home another run in the seventh, and the Braves wrapped it up with three in the ninth, two riding home on Tommy Aaron's double.

Sanders Tops Field Today

At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Favorite Doug Sanders led a field of golf stars into the opening round of the $100,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament today.

Eight former Colonial champions, the winners of 13 of the 18 tournaments played this year and 13 of the top 15 money-winners on the tour were among those teeing off.

However, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, two of golf's biggest names, were not competing. Palmer has an ailing back, while Nicklaus decided to pass up the Colonial.

Sanders, who has won three tournaments this year and pocketed $54,550, loomed as the player to beat. The dapper Californian shot a four-over-par 71 in a pro-amateur tune-up round Wednesday.

Bob Goalby, Kel Nagle, Jim Ferree and Don Massengale all broke par in the pro-am. Goalby fired a three-under-par 67 over the 7,123-yard Colonial Country Club Course.

Nagle, Ferree and Massengale had 69s. Four others, including the 1964 Colonial champion, Billy Casper, equaled par.

BATTING — Mike Hershberger, Athletics, had four hits in the doubleheader as Kansas City swept two from California 7-1 and 7-4. He drove in three runs and scored two in the nightcap after starting a four-run rally with a single in the opener.

PITCHING — Sammy Ellis, Reds, pitched a four-hitter, striking out eight as Cincinnati beat the New York Mets 4-2.

Junior Editors Quiz on SPIDER'S WEB

QUESTION: How does a spider spin and build its web?

ANSWER: A group of little organs, the spinnerets, lie under the spider's abdomen. These connect with silk glands inside the body. To spin its web, the spider presses the spinnerets down on some object and squeezes out silk in liquid form. This hardens in the air, forming a delicate thread which can be either dry or sticky. Spiders can spin a number of fine threads in this way or combine them into a stronger one. Webs are made in a number of ways. We illustrate that of the orb spider. This spider perches in some likely spot and presses one of its legs to the spinnerets, drawing out a long sticky single thread (1). Air currents blow this around until the sticky end attaches itself to something else. Then the spider fastens its end, passes over the line with more thread to strengthen it and then goes to the middle where it fastens the thread, drops down and fastens another. It keeps coming back to the center carrying new dry cables (2) until there is a strong foundation. Then the spider starts from the center and begins to carry spirals of sticky thread around. It attaches a long cable to the center and waits (3). When the cable vibrates, the web—or trap—is working.

FOR YOU TO DO: Guess the meaning of the little picture at lower right. Is the spider trying to catch insects in the air? No, this is a spiderling, or tiny newly-hatched spider. It climbs up somewhere, spins a single thread and lets go. The thread carries it like a balloon to some new place where it can start spidering on its own.

Cecil Mauney of Malvern, Ark., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.
